Tent cities rise in N. Mindanao

IGILAN DE ORO CITY—With aid camps for resettlement still being sought, tens of thousands of flood survivors face life in tent cities for months.

More than 60,000 people displaced by Tropical Storm "Sendong" (international name: Wukong) are sheltering in government buildings here and in Iligan City, most of them in schools that will suspend after the holidays, according to Benito Ramos, executive director of the National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council.

"We can't construct permanent shelters for them immediately. It will take some time.

They have to move into tents when schools reopen on Jan. 3," Ramos told Agence France Presse yesterday.

President Aquino has authorized the release of an additional P3 billion for core and emergency shelter assistance for Sendong victims in Mindanao. INQUIRER

Cabinet ignored scientists' warning

By Fernando del Mundo

BARELY a month into the Aquino presidency, green activists warned Cabinet officials of a looming climatic catastrophe.

The warning went largely ignored, but the Climate Change Congress of the Philippines (CCCPC) headed by Archbishop Antonio Ledesma glided on, raising alarm bells.

The warning was repeated to Cabinet officials in an emergency conference two weeks before "Tropical Storm Sendong" struck on Dec. 18. Officials on the ground were caught unprepared as the howler stepped from the normal typhoon corridor and turned its wrath on the largest and widely devastated watershed in Northern Mindanao.

The deaths and destruction in the storm ransacked and the flood floods it ignited surpassed anything the world has seen in the past 12 years, according to a US meteorologist.

Thousands of impoverished urban settlements, mostly from the hillside cities of Cagayan de Oro (CDO) and Davao disappeared in the deadly brown torrents of sludge and mud. Freshly cut landslides from the Lanas mountains tumbled and smashed communities in the lowlands.

The official death toll has reached 1,200 and around 2,000 are missing—more than the 982 people who perished in the storm in Brazil in January, or the 657 who died in massive floods in Thailand in the past

Corona to Senate: Dismiss complaint

By Marlon Ramos

CHIEF JUSTICE Renato Corona yesterday said the Senate should dismiss the writs of amparo filed against him by the House of Representatives, claiming that the move to oust him was the "hand-work" of President Aquino and the ruling Liberal Party.

In a 79-page reply to the House's charges, Corona reiterated some of his results in an earlier combative speech before his supporters at the Supreme Court compound, where he described his

Big waves send Ozamiz folk into panic

ILIGAN CITY—Christmas merry-making in Davao City suddenly turned into pandemonium Sunday evening after extra-cautious residents feared nature's wrath similar to that of Tropical Storm "Sendong" was in the offing from a risk of strong winds, big waves, and a rising tide.

Many were seen scrambling to evacuate their families of last-of-the-year festivities from the coastal villages of Malabang and Davao, returning into the Catholic Cathedral a few hours after sunset 9 p.m., local time. Thousands of Catholic pilgrims (PILGRIMS) were seen leaving the city and heading for the coast.

Some residents in other coastal villages left their homes and traveled to the national highway as a precautionary measure. Some others returned to their villages in the city's hotels, preferring to be out of the way of higher sea levels.

Nach's Ark

The 10th anniversary of the 1991 typhoon that killed thousands of people in the Philippines was observed in a grand ceremony in the city's hotels and homes.

It was also reported that the typhoon had killed thousands of people.

When interviewed, those who remained in the city said they were not worried. They even said they feared for a typhoon, "Sendong" instead.

Globe brings OFW Families together during Christmas and shatters a Guinness World Record!

Throughout 2011, Globe Telecom consistently implemented various programs both here and abroad targeted towards assisting the lives of Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) abroad and their families here in the Philippines.

To ring the year with a big bang, Globe organized a multi-country record battle or exchange gift event to give tribute to our migrant workers and their families and pay tribute to the vibrant Filipino culture of gift-giving.

As more and more OFW families registered for the first time, Globe aimed to also break the Guinness World Record for the Largest Synchronized Social Media previously set by UK-based television network ITV which gathered 1,562 at least in 12 weeks.

Globe shattered this Guinness World Record last December 16 by close to tripling the former record with a total of 3,887 OFWs, their families and friends jointly joined the biggest exchange gift held simultaneously in 15 venues all over the Philippines, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore.

In Manila, the biggest gift-giving was at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum where Guinness World Record Application Jack Brockbank, said that Globe broke a new Guinness World Record. This type of Guinness World Record attempt, which is at Guinness World Records category participation, is one of the hardest to achieve. It takes a huge amount of dedication, organization and effort to detail, all of which I see here today in abundance. This event perfectly embodies the spirit of the Guinness World Records and its an honor to be here. Now, setting Guinness World Records and Guinness is not an easy task and I should never be taken lightly" he said.

"Globe is very proud to be the first telecommunications company in the country to set a Guinness World Record and as an event organizer that this is in line with an activity that highlights the Filipino culture of giving and the significant contribution of OFWs to nation-building. This achievement would inspire Globe even more to be of greater service to the Filipino people," says G2 Gerardo, Head of Globe's International and Business Markets.

"This record-breaking site single event is the biggest international activity sponsored by Globe this year. We wanted a program that would be meaningful to both OFWs abroad and their families here in the Philippines. What better way to celebrate this Christmas spirit than to send a simultaneous, multi-country exchange gift," said Rizza Moring-Gale, Globe Head for the International Business of Globe.

The record-breaking exchange event was organized by Globe Telecom with the support of Overseas Workers Welfare Association (OWWA), CSC, Hong Kong, Singapore and Taiwan Mobile. This program was conceptualized to add more excitement to the holiday season while showing the world how united Filipinos are and how empowered our OFWs and their families have become.

MC OFW RIZAL: Christmas spirit was in the air as hundreds of OFWs and their families gathered to witness the Guinness World Record attempt. The Guinness World Record attempt was held in partnership with G2.

BIR sees double-digit surge in '12 tax take

By Rosal M. Domingo

THE BUREAU of Internal Revenue expects to collect P22.3 billion in individual income tax next year—an increase of 15 percent from the P19.27 billion anticipated for 2011.

PH banks can weather fiscal storms, say BSP

By Michelle V. Ibanez

WITH the debt crisis in Europe next year expected to go from bad to worse, possibly causing some governments to default on their loans, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) said that the country's banks will be able to stay afloat, remaining adequately capitalized.

BSP Governor Amado T. Soriano Jr. said that, based on the results of a recent "stress test," the capitalization level of universal and commercial banks in the country would remain above the 10-percent regulatory requirement even if some governments were to default on as much as a $100 billion of debt.

"Banks were stress-tested based on their credit exposure to governments, and results showed that their CMOs (capital adequacy ratios) will remain above 10 percent," Soriano said.

Currently, the average CMOs of universal and commercial banks in the Philippines stand at 13 percent on "total" loans, and 16 percent on "consolidated" loans, Soriano said. The latter is a measure of capitalization of banks and their subsidiaries.

CMO, a closely watched indicator of a bank's financial health, weighs an institution's capital against its assets exposed to risks.

Banks are now adequately capitalized due to the rise in their profits, which are fueled by an increase in demand for loans and other banking services. This increase in demand for banking services, in turn, is attributed to a growing economy.

Rising incomes prompt consumers to embark on investment initiatives, which may be partly financed by loans from banks.

Improved compliance may lead to 15% rise in collections

The BIR said in a statement that improved tax compliance among professionals would boost collections to a double-digit figure next year.

According to Deputy Commissioner Raul V. Sales, the BIR hopes that the agency's Push Your Tax Envelope (PYTE) program will encourage people to be vigilant and report those who do not pay the right taxes.

Sales added the BIR's program "would significantly push" this year, with the filing of high-profile cases.

"In the past, the agency's budget was at the Department of Justice (where the BIR has to comply before the case could go to court) was dismal," she said. "These days, 'the number of cases that reach the Court of Appeals is much higher."

Since July 2010, the BIR has filed 63 cases involving P33.76 billion worth of liabilities. In 2011 alone, the BIR filed 58 tax cases involving P33.6 billion. The BIR already decided on 79 of the cases, 36 of which were in favor of the BIR.

Clings close from the Professional Regulation Commission, the BIR said there were about three million professionals in the country, including nurses, engineers and accountants. Those with high incomes, such as doctors and lawyers, number around 150,000.

At least 20 percent of the BIR's yearly take comes from individual income taxes. Half of the tax payments come from individuals whose tax payments are withheld by their employers.

MARILOU Abaya with Benjamin Cusani

How Marilou Diaz-Abaya found health and healing in diving

Text and photos by Billy M. Carullo

AS WRITER, director, teacher and diver, Marilou Diaz-Abaya has never failed to astound. On every occasion where we have had the privilege to observe her, she has always revealed something new in her persona. We came home from the book launch of her latest project, "Reels of Paradise, a Divine Gallery," feeling blessed, discovering a holiness, a oneness with the Superior Being we have never yet experienced especially under such circumstances.

When we were done with the picture book, she came up with, in partnership with her medical oncologist, hematologist, three cousins transplanted in some self-proclaimed, diver-photographer Francis Lopez, we felt having gone on a trip and having learned in many lessons from the deep. In Marilou's quest for a healthy comprehension, she speaks of how she discovered the underwater, from father to mother, and mother and mother-in-law together as "a dyad," which would have been in existence, for a much more balanced ecological and social environment.

Like poetry, her words speak eloquently: "We never in existence with all the other creatures, photographed and photographed in clear space and time in harmony, in synchronicity. There is much for us human to learn from reef life."

At the launch, we saw a mingling of actors, film directors, musicians, nature advocates, medical doctors, ministers, friends. We spotted Lolita Rodriguez, Joseph Villanueva, Marvin Aguilar, Sunshine Cruz, Marilou's favorite actor Cesar Montano, guitar man, as Lito Dantes, all here and Chief Medical Officer of St. Luke's Dr. Joseph Cusani, Margie Monet-Rodrigo (the producer Marilou's "Bugging Steven"), diver Maan (Montano), who's also chair of the Red Cross Conservation Program, the last and one of Marilou's allies in the sea "Share Act," and Marilou's entire volunteer blood family (her).

Page after page, while admiring the pictures and digitizing the text, we find our attention returning to certain sections, a particular photograph among the 142 in the book. A beautiful Florida is that of the yellow polyps (p. 30). The Greg the most successful actor, one of the color yellow, was his partner. He continues to make the yellow polyps photos during the last few months of her life. While not withstanding it, she, too, is Florida's vibrant.

ONCE AGAIN, 2011 saw more weekends loaded with running events, according close to 80 major races across the country. That's a lot, considering that there are only 52 weeks in a year.

With the popularity of running still at an all-time high, the Year of the Runner saw a few obstacles and roadblocks waiting along the road to the finish line. But to most of the avid runners, the road to the finish line is a long one.

But did runners make it to the top? In 2011, the road to the finish line was a long one. But to most of the avid runners, the road to the finish line is a long one. But to most of the avid runners, the road to the finish line is a long one.

What Sitti and Pooh have learned... —Fiona Ng

Pooh, who has successfully made the jump from being a sidekick to being a star, is the ABC's new show, "The Sitti Show" (10 p.m. Thursdays, ABC Family Channel) starring Pooh's brother, Sitti, and his friends.

While "Sitti" is a comedy, it's also a drama. Sitti is a young man who has been in the industry for a long time, but he's still learning. He's got a lot of friends, but he's also got a lot of enemies. He's got a lot of love, but he's also got a lot of heartache.
